Form Meeting Function

Form Meeting Function

Our philosophy is simple. By adding design value to strictly functional products, we make them more fun to use, in effect increasing their functionality. Together with some of the most talented people from the world of design and architecture, we strive to embrace a functional, simplistic and crisp Scandinavian style. This is how we make designer furniture without compromising on functionality.

With a vision of simplifying communication in modern office and educational environments, we have become one of the leading brands in Europe within writable surfaces. Whiteboards and glass boards have subsequently been joined by noticeboards, office screens and sound absorbers. All our products are developed, produced and sold under our own brand.

Lintex is a family-owned business, established in 1983. Our head office and production facilities are located in Småland in southern Sweden, with local subsidiaries, sales offices and agents in Scandinavia and all over Europe.

BLENDING IN. STANDING OUT.

Great design doesn't have to stand out. In well-designed professional spaces, many products share the limelight. By allowing flexibility in terms of colours, materials and form, our products can both blend in and stand out, making them the ideal tools for any interior designer.

TIMELESS FUNCTIONALITY. RE-IMAGINED.

We add design value to products that are prominent in the modern office, yet which are almost always overlooked as interior objects. The idea is to challenge this perception of them being strictly functional, without compromising their functionality. We manufacture designer furniture with exceptional functionality.

UNDERSTATED
ELEGANCE.
AMPLIFIED
FOCUS.

Designing best-in-class communication tools is about achieving a delicate balance between form and function. The design must be able to either blend in or stand out, but it must never compromise function. We take great pride in designing products that are characterful without being dominant in relation to their primary purpose.
